Let me introduce myself. I am Antonius Galih Aryanto, a New Testament professor in the Pontifical School of Theology, Sanata Dharma University, Indonesia. I am working with our Patristic Professor, Agus Widodo, studying the commentary of John Chrysostom on the collection for Jerusalem. We work on the original Greek texts, English and Italian resources.

Thank you for considering our article.

Sincerely,

Antonius Galih Aryanto

Review And Revision

[vv] Editor Decision

2022-04-20 12:36 PM

Antonius Galih Arga Wiwin Aryanto, Agus Widodo:

We have reached a decision regarding your submission to Verbum Vitae, "John Chrysostom's Commentary on the Collection for Jerusalem in Rom 15:25-32".

Our decision is: Revisions Required.

Dear Authors,

Two reviews of your article have been received. The editors have decided to publish the article if the corrections suggested by the reviewers are made.

The first reviewer asked for a clear specification of the research problem in the introduction and the status quaestionis.

The second reviewer, in addition to the comments that follow, suggested that the structure of the text be changed slightly. His additional comments can be found in the attached pdf file. Please look carefully at the suggestions and comments of both reviewers and make the appropriate corrections. Please also adapt the bibliographic notation to the standards of the journal Verbum Vitae. All the guidelines can be found here:

I send you the new revision based on the notes given by reviewers. But, I am sorry that I uploaded the same file three times unintentionally. In the new article, we add status quaestionis, change some sentences in the body text and rephrase words and sentences as the suggestion of the reviewers. We also recheck footnotes and bibliography as required by Verbum Vitae.

Thank you

Antonius Aryanto

We accept the correction in the form of a pdf with the corrections made using the annotation tools appropriate for the type of correction in menu> Tools> Comment to replace text> Add note to replace text (Replace); icon: letter T crossed out in blue to be removed> Strikethrough; icon: the letter T crossed out in red

to a comment> Highlight text; icon: yellow marker

The same tools are available when you select text and right-click, you can also use the Del and Ins keyboard shortcuts. Adobe Acrobat Reader DC - popular free program, downloadable - <https://get.adobe.com/pl/reader/>. It is enough, for example, to select the incorrect text with the "Replace" tool and enter only the correct text in the window, without any comment; select the text to be deleted with the "Strikethrough" tool. It is no longer possible to comment, the tool itself indicates the type of correction. Comments to the "Replace" and "Delete" tools (strikeout) become redundant and prevent automatic correction, we import the corrections to InDesign, you can not add anything except the correction because the content of the comment will appear as text in the article. If you need a comment, please do not use "balloons - add a note", instead "highlight text" and the content of the comment in the tool pane. In our software configuration the "balloons" do not work properly. Dear Professors, please, look at the file attached to the message above and let us know if you accept it as a final. If you have any additional comments, please include them as described above (until 3 June)
